

Privacy Policy

For the purposes of this policy, "Personal Information" means information that specifically identifies a member as an individual and is provided to, or collected by, TLOMA. Personal Information, however, does not include your name, business title or business contact information in your capacity as an employee of a member-firm or an individual member of TLOMA.

TLOMA does not sell, trade or disclose any personal information to third parties, however, we do distribute professional contact information to our Sponsors and Trade Show Participants participating in our annual Conference.